ALL AMERICA GARDEN CLUB November Offerings

The Original "Plant-of-the-Month" Club

JOSEPH VANCE BUILDING . SEATTLE 1, WASHINGTON

1946

Your gift to that very special person . . .

Unusual . . . delightful . . . pleasure-giving for many years to come—a tiny table holly tree, well berried, growing on its own strong, sturdy root system, and ONLY 12 to 18 inches high!

 Ordinary holly does not bear until it is much older. THIS wee baby of a tree is but THREE YEARS old! Furthermore, as soon as, or even before these bright Christmas berries ripen and drop, early in the new year, this exceptional little tree will show clusters of waxen, four-sepaled, pale green centered tiny bloom in delicate fairy-like sprays.

 This tiny holly is self-pollinating. You do not need two parent trees as in ordinary varieties. It is very slow growing so that a properly trimmed adult tree will attain only the height of 10 or 12 feet. These baby trees aren't compact as yet, of course, but the adult tree is beautifully formed and very compact and brilliant with clusters of bright red berries.

 This little tree does not need special coddling. It will grow in almost any soil and stand to 65° F. indoor as well as quite low outdoor temperatures. It is ABSOLUTELY FREE FROM DISEASE.

 We are genuinely enthusiastic about it, and proud to offer it to you for your Christmas giving and for your own collection. We will send a beautiful specimen of this rare holly tree nicely wrapped and packed with really generous amounts of extra cut sprays of berried holly and mistletoe packed around it, with your greeting card, to any address in the United States. Postpaid, each tree, $15.75.

AQUILEGIA, Blue Bird

Of all the Columbine (Aquilegia) we have seen, this new giant-flowered variety surpasses them all. The blooms are exceedingly long-spurred and come in a range of beautiful clear, bright light blue spurs with graceful white trumpets. They are particularly good for cutting because good blue flowers are limited, and these grow in airy branching arrangement, with strong, long stems. Our generous packet should produce over 200 plants. Per packet, $1.00.

CARNATION, Clove Beauty

For color and old-fashioned charm in your garden, there is no flower that adds more than the very new spicy, sweet-smelling fragrant carnation, “Clove Beauty.” This is especially large and double and grows on sturdy, one foot high silvery gray plants. A bed of them will produce in early summer a spectacular mass of bright bloom in a color range from deep red to white. This large packet will produce about 200 plants. Per packet, $1.00.

DELPHINIUM, Lake Tahoe Blend

This carefully selected Pacific Giant Delphinium has enormous long spikes of immense flowers. Seeds of both a clear beautiful blue and of an exquisite white are included to combine in a particularly gorgeous garden grouping, a grouping which brings a mental picture of beautiful blue Lake Tahoe in its setting of white capped peaks. Enough for about 100 plants. Per packet, $2.00.

ICELAND POPPY, Olympian

This new strain is of more vigorous growth, has longer stems and larger, lovelier flowers than any we have ever seen. The crinkled blooms come in many different delightful shades of orange, yellow, pink and white and are of such excellent substance with such good stiff stems that they may be used by themselves in vases and are of great value for flower arrangements. Our large packet will sow a 35 foot row. Per packet, $1.00.

CALENDULA, Cream Beauty

Here is an entirely new color in Calendula. It is a rich, deep cream, a tone beautiful in itself and ideal as a background for other more brilliantly colored flowers, especially those whose colors need a neutral tone as a harmonizer. The blooms are large and double. Enough seed for a 40 foot row. Per packet $1.00.

SNAPDRAGON, Garden Club Hybrids

A very new introduction in a rust-resistant snapdragon. The distinctive color combinations in various shades of gorgeous orange and buff are thrillingly beautiful. The medium tall plants are ideal for massing and middle backgrounds in the border and bloom continuously for a long season. This is an Antirrhinum you will treasure. An especially limited amount of this seed. Per packet, $3.00.
